

Top Secret

25X1

OCO CABLE Ed.

National Intelligence Daily (Cable)

OF THE PARTY OF TH

20 May 1982

With the little of the

Top Secret

CPAS NIDC 82-118C

20 May 1982

Λ

Copy

25X1

Approved Fo	or Release 2007/08/04 : 0	CIA-RDP84T0030	01R000300010067-1 Top Secret
UK-ARGENTIN	NA: Argentines Av	wait Assault
	(Information as	s of 2300 ED	T)
sides apparer showdown. The parent that e any positive remains unway		eations for an als was somber omatic efforts ine military let	imminent military r as it became ap- s were not yielding leadership reportedly feat is more honorable at Port Sta tary comman aircraft br	anley yesterday, and. No results we cought to the Falk	according to ere reported klands area	acked the airfield Argentina's mili- The 20 Harrier on a container to the British air-
Argentine to rison on the recent bombon minimal dam to the carrant and close a probably has on the carrant and close and close a probably has on the carrant and close and close a probably has on the carrant and close and close and close a probably has on the carrant and close	ne Falklands prior lings and shelling mage. The Harrier liers are now avail air support for as ad to transfer the liers to other shi which join 17 Sea	ons and to so to an attace appear to resthat have ilable to pressult force helicopter ips to make	ck. Thus far, have caused only been transferred ovide air cover s. The British s that have been space for the new
BERNE STATE OF THE
			continued
			Top Secret
		THE RESERVE OF THE PERSON NAMED IN

Approved For Release 2007/08/04: CIA-RDP84T00301R000300010067-1

	Top Secret
raontino Military Londorchin Uny
rgentine Military Leadership Unw	avering
ief that over the long term Lond	Buenos Aires's be-ustain either its military or it as made Argentina less flexible	s diplomatic position
eather Deteriorating
//Weather satellites indicat round the Falklands through most wilding to about 20 feet, but the ill improve on Friday.//	of today, with waves
Comment: //The bad weather perations through tomorrow. The he use of most landing craft, and	high waves will prevent
	continued
	Top Secret

Approved For Release 2007/08/04: CIA-RDP84T00301R000300010067-1

Approved For Release 2007/08/04 : CIA-RDP84T00301R000300010067-1

flying helicopters hazardous. If the British can operate under these conditions, however, they will be less vulnerable to Argentine air power based on the mainland.// Mood in the UK //Parliament will again consider the Falkland dispute today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the Falklands is generally expected in the next few days.// Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the Argentines.//	Inder these conditions, however, they will be less vulnerable to Argentine air power based on the mainland.// Mood in the UK //Parliament will again consider the Falkland dispute today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the Falklands is generally expected in the next few days.// Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	Top Secret under these conditions, however, they will be less vulnerable to Argentine air power based on the mainland.// Mood in the UK //Parliament will again consider the Falkland dispute today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the Falklands is generally expected in the next few days.// Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	Inder these conditions, however, they will be less vulnerable to Argentine air power based on the mainland.// Mood in the UK //Parliament will again consider the Falkland dispute today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the Falklands is generally expected in the next few days.// Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the //Parliament will again consider the Falkland dispute today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the Falklands is generally expected in the next few days.// Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	//Parliament will again consider the Falkland dispute today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the Falklands is generally expected in the next few days.// Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	under these conditions, however, they will be less vulner
Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	Comment: //The parliamentary consensus supporting the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	Mood in the UK
the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the	today, but the mood in the UK is somber. An attack on the government's handling of the crisis may be weakening as the prospect of a settlement recedes. The debate today will give the government a last chance to convince opposition moderates that all reasonable attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement have been made. Thatcher will not be willing to make any concessions, however, either by including the opposition in government councils or by engaging in obviously futile negotiations with the

Top Secret

25X1