Dear Prime Minister

I hope you will forgive me writing to you direct, but I wanted to thank you for going over to Warran and so promptly to visit units and commands involved in the tragic incident at Warran Point and to talk to some of their casualties.

The courage and resolution you showed in going right up to the most forward and vulnerable base at Cronmaglen has won the admiration of the British Army and will have done a great deal to fortify the morale of the units concerned who, naturally, and, in good shape as they are, are operating under

Some show at the moment, ✓ hope you were impressed with the professionalism of those you saw, and that you were able to get a good idea of the security situation as it is, and of its requirements.

Yours sincerely

John Bramall
