PRIME MINISTER

I thought you might be interested to know that there has been a considerable change in the tenor of the correspondence about the Falkland Islands from constituency branch and other party office holders which has been reaching this Office in the past week.

Following the Saturday Emergency Debate there was a good deal of criticism of the then Foreign Secretary and the Defence Secretary.

However, since the subsequent debates there has been a marked increase in the messages of support for the Government's actions and in particular for your leadership.
