Dear Professor Vaizey,

Thank you so much for your letter of 2 November, and for your kind remarks about the recent announcement about educational expenditure.

I will certainly bear in mind your suggestions about nursery school charges. We hope, over the next two or three months to give some thought to the question of nursery education within the Department. I also note what you say about student grants. All aspects of student support will, of course, be discussed in the forthcoming Review, including one in which I am particularly interested: the scale of parental contributions.

Yours sincerely
Margaret Thatcher
