

3 January 1979

The Editor
The Economist
25 St. James's Street
London SW1A 1HG

SIR - How uninformed does Mr. Harold Macmillan wish to appear when he allows himself to be quoted (December 30) as having spoken of Darwinism as one of "these vague and very, on the whole, unprofitable dreams"?

F. A. Hayek