Peter Taylor

Thank you for your letter of 25 June.

I have discussed your letter, and also the letters the President of the Law Society and Mr. Thomas Morison, Q.C., have sent me, with the Lord Chancellor. He has assured me that, in his opinion, Clause 17 of the Employment Bill is adequate. However, he would be very happy to discuss the various points which you and the others have raised. If you would like to have a discussion, perhaps you would get in touch with his office.

Yours sincerely
Margaret Thatcher
