

HOUSE OF COMMONS
LONDON SW1A 0AA

Dear Michael,

Most of us have written to you individually, some of us many times, to express our fundamental disagreement with the government's economic analysis, but we do not believe that these representations have been effective.

We are therefore now writing collectively to warn you that we have decided that were the government to present an economic package to the House of Commons during this winter, the effect of which was to deflate aggregate demand in the economy, we would all vote against any consequent measures presented to the House.

David Cawl		Alan Dymally
Stephen Dorrell		Geoffrey Howe
David Keir	John Gummer	Robert Hicks
Robin Cook		David Cawl
Charlie Tomlinson		Norman Maclean
John Gummer		David Milledge
Denis Healey		Neil Snow
Laurence King		Alexandra Birtles
Mark Wolfson	Robert M. Good
Charles Meyer		John Hume

Patrick Cormack Stephen Dorrell David Knox Robin Squire Charlie Morrison Julian Critchley Dennis Walters Ian Gilmour Mark Wolfson Anthony Meyer	John Watson Robert McCrindle	Hugh Dykes Cyril Townsend Robert Hicks David Crouch Norman Miscampbell David Madel Keith Speed Alexander Pollock John Hunt
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

21 names

It is believed that Jim Lester, Richard Needham, Chris Patten & John Wheeler made up the remainder of the "Group of 25"