Dear Professor Hayek,

I am writing to ask whether you might be willing to come as my guest to the Chichele Dinner on December 5th at All Souls College in Oxford and to ~~stay~~ the night.

It would be a great pleasure to very many colleagues and to me if you were able to come.

But of course I understand that you will already have obligations for that time and may not any way wish to travel during what may be bad weather.

So as to save you the bother of replying by letter, I will telephone your house next week so that you can give me, or leave for me, an answer.

If you can come I will of course send you all details.

Yours sincerely
Karl Joseph

I wish I were able to accept your invitation to dinner on December 5th. Unfortunately my recovery from a long illness has not yet progressed sufficiently to make it likely that I can visit England in a few weeks' time.

With all best wishes,
