Dear Prime Minister,

I wish to convey to you my warmest congratulations on your marvellous success at the General Election. Your success is due, above all, to your great personal commitment as well as to your determination, your courage and the clarity of your policy.

I welcome the fact that the result of the British Parliamentary Elections will further strengthen the position of the West and ensure fruitful development of the Community. We shall both be in office during the next few years and this will give us the great opportunity to continue our friendly co-operation on still closer terms. I look forward to our meeting next week in Stuttgart where we can provide the Community with a new impetus.

Please accept my cordial wishes for success in your continuing work.

Sincerely yours,

Helmut Kohl
