Dear Prime Minister

Director of Publicity

We need a man or woman with imagination, class and an outstanding political flair. The strictly press and media relations side of it can be picked up provided someone is here to pass on the introductions and the techniques. I am here to do that.

Would you agree to Michael Portillo or Michael Dobbs being dragooned into it if necessary?

Both want to be candidates at the next Election. That is not a major problem. Both the last Elections were essentially won before the campaigns opened. In the final weeks I can carry on the work that one of the two Michaels has started.

The appointment will raise the morale of Central Office and raise the sights of all the people who work here. Either of these two candidates would do this job.

Lawson
Gordon

The Prime Minister.
