Dear Hugh

I was very touched by your letter of 13 October. The terrible explosion at Brighton last week has inevitably cast a long shadow. But it has only reinforced our determination to stand firm against the enemies of democracy.

My dear Margaret,

Your serenity & calm last Friday were a real inspiration, & an example as to how to behave in such horrible circumstances. It seemed to me, too, that all concerned, in the party & cabinet, showed great resourcefulness & courage, & that is bound to help the cause against which the IRA have set themselves to fight. Another example as to how terrorism has often the opposite effect to what it seeks.

With very best wishes

Yours ever

Angus

Ferdie Mount made a very interesting speech at the Centre's fringe meeting. We shall send a text when available.
