THE PRIME MINISTER

Dear Ron,

A brief note to thank you for your kind letter.

I thought the Bonobello conference went very well indeed - much better than the press and media indicated.
We are now working towards the Commonwealth conference in Australia at the end of September. Our Australian colleagues are rather keen to have a grand declaration about the rights of the Third World countries. We are trying to tone it down because it would be wrong to raise false hopes.

It was wonderful to have Nancy with us for a week or so over the Royal Wedding. She was a great hit everywhere she went, - a real and true "Ambassador" for the President of the United States. We all loved her - and I hope she enjoyed our unique celebrations.

I believe your recent defense decisions are absolutely right.

Have a good holiday.

Yours ever Raycomb.

Dear Margaret:

R 7/8

I was delighted to be with you again at Montebello. You played such an important role in our discussions. We might still be drafting the communique if it were not for you.

Nancy thoroughly enjoyed the festivities of the royal wedding. Certainly, my thoughts were with you and the people of Great Britain on that memorable occasion.

I look forward to the closest possible relations between our two countries. You know, of course, the esteem in which I hold our personal friendship.

Sincerely,

MR WHITMORE
PRIME MINISTER

Ed Streater, the Minister in the US Embassy, rang about the details for Nancy Reagan's visit to London for the Royal Wedding. The only time she would be available to see you other than on Monday evening, 27 July, when you are not free because you have to go to the Palace, is Saturday, 25 July. Mr Streater wonders whether you would be prepared to give a lunch at Chequers.

This is a highly inconvenient day as it is the date we had allocated for the strategy meeting and I think it is going to be difficult to get that group together. Clive also makes the point that we will not know until a later date which other distinguished guests will be in London at that time.

Can I have your views please?
