MR TURNBULL

BIRMINGHAM CONVENTION CENTRE

At a capital cost considerably in excess of £10,000 per job generated, and with a continuing forecast deficit on the centre, the expenditure does not look well-based.

I have not had a chance to call for the back up documents and to go into any detail, in view of the pressures on time for the speech this week. My off-the-cuff reaction is to share your scepticism about the high level of public participation, and the scepticism creeping into the figures from Patrick Jenkin's own appraisal team.

Would you like me to carry it any further?
