From the Private Secretary

28 June 1985

I should just record that at the beginning of the European Council Mr. Papandreou came up to the Prime Minister and said that he wished to offer a sincere apology for the misunderstanding which had occurred over remarks he had made during his election campaign. These had not been well expressed and he could understand why they had given offence. This had not been his intention. He hoped that he and the Prime Minister could work together in the future. The Prime Minister thanked Mr. Papandreou and said that of course she would look forward to a good working relationship.
