2nd June, 1987.

My dear Amanda,

As you suggested I enclose twelve messages conveying good wishes, and will take out about twice that number for Saturday to provide encouraging weekend reading.

Letters of goodwill have, in fact, come from all parts of the world, and in some numbers from America, but I felt that the P.M. would really like to have only those from British subjects.

Yours ever,
Philip
