Dear Mr Lennox-Boyd,

Community Charge Benefit

Your secretary asked for a table showing the points in each local authority where the full community charge becomes payable.

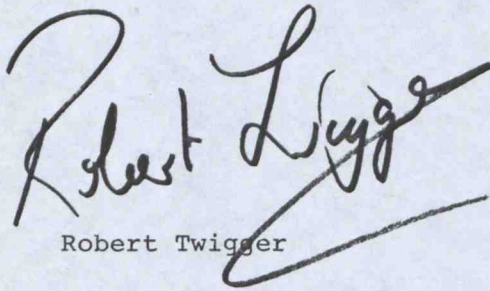

I enclose an up-dated version of the table that appeared in Library Research Note No 90/18 ("Community Charge: Levels and rebates in England") which provides details for five hypothetical families. The accompanying text is reproduced below:

Table 2 sets out, for each local authority the maximum community charge rebate available and the levels of net income at which the full charge becomes payable for five household types. In broad terms net income is original income less tax and national insurance plus family credit, child benefit, etc as appropriate. Capital of less than £3,000 is assumed. It should be noted that the formula for calculating community charge benefit is very complex and depends on a number of factors other than charge levels and income. A fuller description is provided by Research Note No 90/21 Community Charge Benefit. Readers should note that no account here is taken of transitional relief which will reduce the full community charge of many chargepayers and therefore affect the income levels at which benefit runs out.

- the families are assumed not to be receiving Income Support. Income Support recipients are eligible for 80% rebates.
- non-pensioner families are assumed to be working.
- the families have capital of less than £3,000, are not disabled and are the sole occupants.
- the results are rounded to the nearest 5 pence.

I hope that this is of use.

Yours sincerely,
