

PRIME MINISTER

Lord Brown informed: ①
He will let us
have a note of anything of interest which emerges from his own contacts.

Hugh Thomas has been in touch to say that Djilas is apparently in London this week, the first time in 15 years that he has been allowed out of Yugoslavia. Hugh wonders whether you would like to see him.

It would be very difficult in diary terms, and it would also cause problems with the Yugoslav government. Rather regrettably I conclude that it would be better for someone at a rather lower level to see him.

Content for me to say this to Hugh Thomas?

CDP

It is only time that prevents me. I just can't take on any more.
