PRIME MINISTER

The Centre for Policy Studies have today put out a paper on ILEA - by Frederick Naylor and Laurence Norcross. They have delivered copies to all Cabinet Ministers, in preparation for the discussion. It is elsewhere in your box. (information folder)

The analysis of ILEA's defects is not new. The recommendations seem very similar to those of Professor David Smith: the authors go for the single authority, direct elections, direct billing of ratepayers, direct RSG for ILEA, review after 10 years, and a Green Paper on all these. Paragraph 5 of the paper is also a useful presentation of the London Labour Party's future plans for ILEA.
