ROYAL VISIT

The Prime Minister will wish to know that the Secretary of State has agreed that Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth The Queen Mother should visit Northern Ireland to attend a parade to mark the 75th anniversary of the Territorial Army in Northern Ireland.

The outline programme is as follows:

Sunday 19 June

16.30 Arrive at RAF Aldergrove in Andover of the Queen's Flight. Transfer to helicopter of the Queen's Flight and fly direct to Hillsborough Castle. Stay overnight in Royal Apartments at Hillsborough Castle. Guest of Honour at small dinner party at Hillsborough Castle

Monday 20 June

10.40 Fly direct to St. Patrick's Barracks, Ballymena by helicopter of the Queen's Flight.
11.05-15.00 Attend parade, reception and luncheon at St. Patrick's Barracks.
15.15 Depart for RAF Aldergrove by Queen's Flight helicopter.
15.35 Depart from RAF Aldergrove in an Andover of the Queen's Flight.

We agreed with the Queen Mother's household that a secret unannounced visit would be impracticable because of the ceremonial nature of the occasion and the prior arrangements which had to be made. We therefore followed the precedent of Princess Alice's visit to the Province to present new Colours to a Volunteer Battalion in August 1981 by making a low key announcement at the end of March that Her Majesty would be visiting the Territorial Army in Northern Ireland at some unspecified date in June.

At present the security forces see no reason why the visit should not go ahead since, apart from the flying time, it will take place entirely in secure locations. However, as usual, the visit may be cancelled at any time if the security forces' assessment should change.

--- I am copying this letter to Philip Moore at Buckingham Palace and to Martin Gilliat at Clarence House.

Yours etc,

Philip

From the Principal Private Secretary

17 June 1983

Thank you for your letter of 17 June about the visit by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth The Queen Mother to Northern Ireland on Sunday 19 and Monday 20 June.

I have shown this to the Prime Minister who has noted that the security forces will keep their assessment under review and will cancel the visit if their assessment should change.

I am sending copies of this letter to Sir Philip Moore and Sir Martin Gilliat.

Dear Tim

ROYAL VISIT

As you know, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother is to visit Northern Ireland on Sunday 19 June and Monday 20 June.

Some documents giving some details of the main events of the visit were stolen from a journalist's car in Dublin this afternoon. The journalist had had a confidential advance press briefing. There is no evidence that the information in the stolen documents, which have already been recovered has fallen into terrorist hands. The advice of our security advisers is that this theft is not sufficient reason for changing plans. The particular information in the stolen documents is already known to many, including staff and prospective guests, and the fact of the visit itself is very widely known throughout the Province.

Sir Philip Woodfield is quite satisfied there is no need to change anything and we have spoken to Clarence House accordingly. They are content.

The fact of the theft is known to the newspapers and is likely to be sensationalised. We are, however, continuing our usual practice of not commenting in advance on the details of royal visits.

Yours ever

Dave
