The Right Honourable Margaret Thatcher, F.R.S., M.P.,
Prime Minister of the United Kingdom,
House of Commons,
LONDON SW1,
England.

My dear Prime Minister:

I cannot thank you enough for taking the trouble to attend and address our Annual Dinner, and I want also to thank you for your kind words about me at the dinner and in your address to our Parliament the following day. Everyone present at the dinner was impressed with your remarks, which I am sure have had a great impact on that small but very influential audience.

I have just had a most interesting conversation with Brian Mulroney, and I share your view, and I know that Henry Kissinger does too, that his foreign policy ideas are sound and that the encouragement you gave him will prove valuable. Certainly we, for our part, will do what we can to propagate sensible ideas in this country.

As my wife and I will be in Britain all summer, I hope that our paths may cross there. In any case, I did want to thank you for your thoughtfulness and for your kind words.

With my very best wishes.

Yours sincerely,

Conrad Black
