Dear Sir Terence,

Please accept my personal concern and sorrow at the loss of life which the Royal Navy has suffered during the ongoing serious and critical events in the South Atlantic.

The United Kingdom and the Royal Navy have shown a fierce and correct pride and personal mettle which is so important in any call to arms which we as military and naval men can expect in responding to duty.

Judy and I would share our prayers that further loss of life can be prevented as both the United Kingdom and Argentina seek for a satisfactory solution to these critical South Atlantic events.

Sincerely,

D. L. Heisinger
